

Viet Aid Okayed By Panel

Policy Riders Rejected By Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved the administration's $415-million foreign aid authorization bill today after rejecting policy riders opposing widening of the Viet Nam war.

After considering a letter from Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the committee voted 13 to 6 to reject an amendment by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. Rusk said approval of the measure or the furnishing of economic and military assistance to any nation cannot be construed as a commitment to defend that nation with armed forces.

Also rejected, 14 to 5, was an amendment by Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., designed to make clear passage of the aid bill, which includes $275 million in economic assistance to South Viet Nam, involves no endorsement of President Johnson's conduct of the Viet Nam war.

Fulbright had asked clarification from Rusk on whether Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's pledge of "all necessary assistance" to Southeast Asian countries involves fighting for them.

He offered a rider saying the provision of aid could not be

Members of a steering committee, set up last Friday to assist in promoting the establishment of a junior college in Sedalia, met with members of the Sedalia Jaycees Sunday afternoon and discussed projects for the up-coming campaign.

Mrs. Bill Ramsey was appointed secretary for the steering committee, which is working in conjunction with the Jaycees and various citizens groups to pave the way prior to the April 5 election on the junior college issue.

Under discussion Sunday were advertising campaigns, financial arrangements and the establishment of an advisory group which will assist in presenting the junior college proposal to citizens in the Benton and Pettis Counties area which the college would serve.

It was decided that two representatives from each civic organization should be present at a mass meeting in order that these groups can contact Dean They might report back to their respective organizations on the issue. No date was set Sunday for the meeting.

An intense publicity campaign was mapped out by the Jaycees.

Rules On Selection Of Bank By Official

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson held today it would be a violation of Missouri's new conflict of interest law if an alderman of a fourth class city took part in the selection of a bank in which he is an officer as the municipal depository.

The opinion, written by Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Gordon Siddens for State Rep. Homer M. Clements, D-Jackson County, followed the legal guidelines set down in a March 3 opinion for Rep. Robert P. Warden, R-Jasper County.

The earlier opinion applied to the mayor of a third class city who also was an officer of the city's depository.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — Four Navy men lost their lives Sunday when their twin-engine S2F "Grumman Tracker" bomber crashed moments after taking off at Albuquerque's

Kirtland Air Force Base. A military spokesman said the craft went down after reaching an altitude of 100-feet. The plane hit one mile south of the base's north-south runway. (UPI)

Begin Special Session

Lawmakers Tackle Tough Problems

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Gov. Warren E. Hearnes handed a special session of the Missouri Legislature a budget problem of almost a billion dollars today but said it is based on a belief no new taxes are necessary.

At the same time he fleshed out his recommendations for 20 other special session problems, including a long range look at the state's capital improvement needs and the advisability of a big bond issue to finance them.

The session is limited to 60 days and to considering only the subjects the governor presents. Hearnes expressed confidence the lawmakers could get the job done.

"Your intelligent dedication," he said in a speech prepared for a joint House and Senate session, "will resolve the outcome of this legislation and your decisions will form the pattern for Missouri's well being not only this year but—in many instances — our progress for years to come."

One of the special session's thorniest problems is expected to be the governor's recommendation to permit handicapped or educationally deprived students to get remedial instruction and treatment in public schools. This would allow Missouri to qualify for federal funds under a 1965 congressional act.

The proposal is expected to revive the old fight over using public money to instruct parochial pupils but the governor avoided any mention of this. Instead, he spoke of the need to clarify the present school law by providing for multiple attendance.

"It is my recommendation," he said, "that our compulsory school attendance law be changed so that it is acceptable if a child attends more than one school—if the total attendance by that child is equivalent to attending regularly the hours (six) required at one day school."

Billboard and junkyard regulation along federal aid highways also has aroused controversy in the past and all such proposals have been defeated. This time the governor said Missouri must act or face the loss of around $20 million in federal aid by 1968.

Some legislators have suggested this problem could be put off until the regular session of 1967. But the governor said: "I have been advised by the State Highway Department that the areas involved should be zoned as soon as possible because the number of billboards on the affected routes may be doubled by the time the General Assembly could act on the matter in 1967."

The petition also asked, whether if they are legally in office, do they continue to contribute to the public school retirement funds or are they eligible for retirement benefits?

On the list of plaintiffs from Pettis County are: C. Berry Elliott, E. L. Birdsong and C. M. Purchase, judges of the county court; and Virgil Houchens, county treasurer.

The Public School Retirement System of Missouri, a corporate group, is also a plaintiff in the case.

Besides the superintendents of schools already listed, also named as defendants are James S. Beaty, John Harris and Leo Wirsig, judges of the county court of Henry County, and Tommy Hull, county treasurer from that county.

21 Candidates Seeking JuCo Trustee Posts

Hubert W. Summers, Route 1, Smithton, has joined 20 other Sedalia and area residents who are seeking one of six trustee seats for the proposed Junior College here in the April 5 election.

Summers announced his candidacy for the position Monday. A graduate of the Smithton school system, Summers has been chairman of the ASC township committee and is a member of the Pettis County Farm Bureau.

Filing deadline for the trustee board was 6 p.m. today. Any post mark prior to 6 p.m. will be accepted, the state board of education in Jefferson City said, since the original filing deadline fell on Sunday.

Filed thus far are: For the three Sedalia seats—Harlan B. Snow, William C. Hopkins, G. Dean Johnson, Aaron W. Haller, Donald C. Proctor, W. D. Hill, C. Gordon Stauffer, Warren Jackson Foote, Harry Purviance, T. R. "Dick" Snow, Verrel M. Martin, L. C. Neal, E. G. Kehde, Jr., Louise W. Ramsey and Mrs. C. Foster Scotten.

Filed for the three out-city board spots: Alfred W. Lloyd, Smithton; E. L. Rhodes, Warsaw; John W. Ragland, Cole Camp; Ordell Sholl, LaMonte; and Clarence Frisch, Lincoln.

Routine Council Meet

Routine ordinance considerations and zoning ordinances are on the city council agenda at tonight's meeting, Sedalia Mayor L. L. Studer said Monday, with no special matters scheduled for presentation.

The council will meet at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Picking Up Pieces After Acquittal

Mossler 'Nightmare' Over

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler set out today, as she put it, to mother a brood of adored children and to "pick up the pieces" of a $33-million business.

She was asked in the presence of her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, following their acquittal Sunday in the 1964 slaying of her multimillionaire husband.

"Mrs. Mossler, will you and Mel Powers be married?" In a little girl voice, normal for her but tinged it seemed with a trace of vexation, Mrs. Mossler with her children behind her, replied at a news conference.

"We don't have any intentions in that direction." Union between aunt and nephew is generally forbidden by American law, although it would be possible outside the United States. Florida law prohibits marriage between blood aunt and nephew.

Less than three hours earlier, Mrs. Mossler and Powers had been acquitted by an all-male jury of the brutal slaying of her husband, Jacques Mossler, 69. He was gray, slender, and, in the words of the state, stood in the way of an incestuous love affair between his wife and her nephew. The defendants, if convicted, could have gone to the electric chair.

Behind Mrs. Mossler and Powers at the unusual news conference in a downtown Miami hotel were Mrs. Mossler's two blonde grown children by her first marriage, and the four attractive youngsters she and Jacques Mossler adopted during their marriage.

Most of them figured in the eventual disposal of Mossler's $33-million banking and loan business.

"By July the entire estate should be distributed," said Mrs. Mossler's chief attorney, Clyde Woody.

Mrs. Mossler, sensitive about her age, places it at 40. Powers is 29.

"I just want to thank everybody," Powers said at the news conference. He said he would go back to Houston, Tex., in a few days to "pick up where I left off."

The jury heard more than 100 witnesses during the seven-week trial in a white-walled, sixth-floor courtroom. Included were convicts the state called from penitentiaries who swore Mrs.

High Court Upholds Voting Rights Act

Dismiss Southern Attack On Constitutionality

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court upheld today key sections of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The high tribunal upheld the power of Congress under the Constitution's 15th Amendment to suspend state literacy tests and similar voting qualifications, and to authorize the attorney general to appoint federal examiners to register qualified voters in various sections of the country.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, in the majority opinion, dismissed a Deep South attack on constitutionality of the act.

"We hold," Warren said, "that the sections of the act which are properly before us are an appropriate means for carrying out Congress' constitutional responsibilities and are consonant with all other provisions of the constitution."

Justice Hugo L. Black wrote a separate opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part. Warren's opinion declared:

"Hopefully, millions of non-white Americans will now be able to participate for the first time on an equal basis in the government under which they live. We may finally look forward to the day when truly 'the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude.'"

Warren's quotation was of the Constitution's 15th Amendment.

Joining in the Warren opinion were Justices William O. Douglas, Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan, William J. Brennan, Potter Stewart, Byron White and Abe Fortas.

South Carolina, joined by Virginia, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi had attacked the new law as violative of the Constitution. The federal government defended the law and was joined by 20 states.

Warren's opinion said two points "emerge vividly" from the legislative history of the act.

Hunting Mail Bags

ROLLA, Mo. (AP)—The highway patrol has asked persons in the area between Ft. Leonard Wood and Vichy keep a lookout for three mail bags which fell from a plane Saturday.

The patrol said it had been informed the mail bags fell from a Central Airlines plane, which took off from the military post. At a point seven miles northeast of Vichy, the patrol said, a plane door was found open and the bags were missing.

The fierce battle tapered off into a mop-up operation today, with the Marines and Vietnamese troops in pursuit of small bands of Red survivors. Prisoners said the regiment had been in South Viet Nam only a month since it filtered down from the North by jungled Ho Chi Minh Trail. Allied spokesmen reported.

But the victory was costly for the Allies. Marine officers told correspondents at the battle scene along the central coast that the Marines took their heaviest losses of any single battle in Viet Nam, although over-all Marine casualties were described as light. The toll came in the initial assault on Friday.

Eleven helicopters were hit by the Communists and two

New Set Of Guidelines For Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government issued new school desegregation guidelines today intended to make sure that freedom of choice plans operate to break down dual systems.

The guidelines also require actual desegregation in the faculties and staffs of public schools where dual systems — one for whites and one for Negro or minority groups — have operated.

They require school authorities to close small, inadequate schools established for Negroes and other minority groups.

The bulk of the Southern school districts may have chosen the freedom of choice desegregation plan under which students choose their own schools, regardless of where they live.

Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, said in a statement that it is the responsibility of local school systems to insure that such plans operate to break down any dual systems and to establish a single system of schools for all students in a community, without regard to race, color, or national origin.

Simplified procedures require periodic reports from school districts to measure progress in carrying out desegregation plans.

"It is the responsibility of the school system," Howe said in a statement, "to insure that any freedom of choice plan adopted by a district accomplishes the breakdown of any dual school system."

Dear Readers: Well, there is no way out of it. It's ten lashes with a wet noodle for Annie.

In a recent column I said every woman should wear a girdle—even if she's slender as a reed. Reasons: (1) Girdles are a must to keep stockings on. (2) No matter how well reared, a woman needs a girdle or she will jiggle when she walks.

Dozens of females took the snap out of my advice by suggesting a variety of ways to keep stockings up WITHOUT a girdle. Hundreds of men insist that a woman SHOULD jiggle when she walks—and why am I trying to take all the fun out of life anyway?

Dan Daniels, sparkling columnist for the Wheeling News-Register, wrote: "I'm the last guy in the world to put the rap on self-improvement, but I happen to think God's design is better. Why lock up everything? When a lady trusses herself up like a knight in full armor, she doesn't look thinner, she merely rearranges the lumps. The best thing girls have going for them is that they are not boys. So please, Dear Ann, change your advice before you smother the one bright light in our lives and create a helluva boom in whale-bone.—DANNY BOY.

From Lincoln, Nebraska: When I returned from the rest room (where I removed my miserable girdle which had been choking me to death) several stenographers were in a huddle discussing your praise of the girdle. Like the man who enjoyed pounding his head on the floor because it felt so good when he stopped, the best thing I can say for the girdle is that I put one on in the morning because it feels so darned good when I take it off at noon.—HIPPIY BUT HAPPY.

Eureka, Calif.: I gave up trying to tell my wife what to do thirty years ago. She can stuff her caboose in a 50-gallon oil drum, if it fits, but I've yet to meet a man who wouldn't rather look at a few honest curves than see a woman whose undergarments serve as sausage casings.—TWENTY-TWENTY VISION.

St. Louis: Your timing couldn't have been more unfortunate. I am the director of health and physical fitness for the Y.W.C.A. We had just completed our press releases for "Throw Away Your Girdle Week" when you came out with that absurd statement. "Every woman needs a girdle."

Every woman does NOT need a girdle. Every woman needs to keep herself in good condition through proper diet and exercise. God gave woman muscles for a reason. Girdles deprive the abdominal and derriere muscles of the chance to do the work they were designed to do. Please, Ann Landers, back down a little and help me fight

Breathalyzer Program For Civic Groups

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Missouri Highway Patrol, has announced that the Patrol will conduct demonstrations on the operation of the Photoelectric Breathalyzer instrument used on suspected drunk drivers in Missouri.

The demonstrations are available to civic organizations in the State as part of the Highway Patrol's public information and education program.

The Breathalyzer is a portable instrument which quickly reveals through a simple breath test the concentration of alcohol in the blood of anyone suspected of being "under the influence." This device for determining intoxication by chemical tests has been approved by the State Division of Health.

The demonstrations will be conducted by those patrolmen who have been trained as instructors in the operation of the Breathalyzer and by other members of the Patrol who have been trained to administer breath tests to drivers suspected of driving while intoxicated.

Colonel Hockaday said, "The purpose of these demonstrations is to give as many people as possible the opportunity to see firsthand how the chemical test really works. The demonstration will show how the breath of a subject is delivered to the instrument, how it is analyzed and how it is then measured for alcoholic content."

Civic organizations wishing to sponsor a demonstration of the Photoelectric Breathalyzer should contact their nearest Highway Patrol Troop Headquarters.

Another Star With Name Of Sinatra

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It's no great surprise that a Sinatra record is the No. 1 seller in the country today. Would you believe it's Nancy Sinatra's?

You would if you were attuned to the teen-age beat. Nancy's record, "These Boots Were Made For Walkin'," is atop the top 40 in sales and radio play. Over a million copies have been sold, in this country and the record is soaring in Australia, England and other countries.

All this is extremely gratifying to Nancy, a petite, well put-together, blonde-streaked brunette.

"After recording so many records with so little success, it's pretty hard to believe what is happening," she says.

No one is happier with her hit than her noted parent, Frank Sinatra.

"He's very pleased," reports Nancy. "Now he calls me 'star'."

His reaction could well comprise more than mere paternal pride. Nancy recorded "Boots" for Reprise, her father's company, and the disc is likely to be the largest selling single in the firm's history.

How did all this come about? Nancy is quick to give credit where credit is due: to an independent record producer, Lee Hazlewood. He went to Reprise and said he wanted to produce some numbers with Nancy Sinatra. A date was arranged.

Hazlewood, who is also a songwriter and singer, presented Nancy with "So Long, Babe," which she recorded. At the same time he previewed the half-finished "Boots." Nancy was entranced with it, but he refused to give her the song until he had completed it. She recorded the number at their second session.

"For three weeks it just sat there," she recalled. "I thought to myself, 'Oh, boy, failed again.' It's pretty crushing to

Fifth-grade pupils of Grant Elementary School, Port Huron, Mich., chose as a project making valentines for Tiede, who is shown here opening some of them in Saigon. Gift Of Tickets Ends With Death

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hollenbeck of Cape Girardeau, who were aboard the British jetliner that crashed Saturday on the slopes of Mt. Fuji in Japan, were making an Asian tour on tickets given to them by a close friend.

Charles N. Harris, a Cape Girardeau banker and owner of a truck and trailer firm, won the tour trip sponsored by the Thermo King Corp. of Minneapolis, Minn. He said he and his wife decided two months ago not to make the trip because their daughter was expecting a baby.

"We thought we'd give the tickets to the Hollenbecks because they were very good friends, they had no children and they loved to make trips," Harris said.

Hollenbeck, a businessman, was a pilot, as is Harris. They had been friends 35 years.

American Medicine Facing New Test; Time of Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE — With new demands pressing on it from all directions, American medicine today faces a time of crisis. But from this period of testing, new patterns of better health care may emerge. This is the first of five articles appraising the nation's medical picture today and tomorrow.

NEW YORK (AP) — The young, dark-haired doctor in Boston paused, searching for his words:

"It's a tidal wave," he said. "There's simply a great tidal wave of demand and human need for more and better health care, boiling up all across the land."

Standing on the traditional shoreline, to meet this wave, are some 280,000 physicians, about 600,000 nurses, and 97,000 dentists.

Before the wave subsides, says a surgeon in Houston, it will strain, drown, or change many traditional way of supplying the nation's medical manpower and meeting the health needs of its people.

In their place will rise some new structures in the house of medicine, new kinds of health assistants, new ways to keep people healthy, to extend life, to add to its quality.

This now is a time of crisis, of a serious shortage not only of doctors and nurses but also technologists and others possessing dozens of needed skills, according to many, though not all, leaders in various responsibilities of medical and health care.

The shortages "will get worse before they get better," authorities in many cities agree.

The tidal wave springs from many sources:

1. Medicare, starting July 1, providing hospitalization under insurance for up to 18 million citizens of 65 or over.

Medicare is certain to increase demand for hospital beds, surgical, medical and nursing care. No one is sure how much.

2. Coming establishment of regional centers for heart disease, cancer and strokes, designed to spread the best, most modern knowledge and techniques more broadly through communities.

3. Spread of prepaid insurance plans for medical and hospital care, removing some of the financial hesitation to seek attention.

4. Growth of comprehensive community mental health centers, already provided for under federal and state laws.

5. Expansion of population — there are nearly 200 million Americans now. And now many people know more about medicine; they expect more and better care.

6. And — possibly most significant in total numbers — millions of neglected poor people are being introduced to the chance for better health care.

Deduct, on the home front, doctors drafted for military service to tend fighting men in Viet Nam. The last call, in February, was for 2,496 doctors. More may be needed if the war widens, if more men fall ill of malaria or other diseases resistant to present drugs.

All this surge of demand is rising to test a system of medicine, American medicine, which in many respects is the best in the world. At its highest level, it is without peer. It has many strengths, superb quality.

But already it is not without its soft spots.

For years, the United States has been importing doctors — one in six doctors licensed each year was graduated from some foreign medical school.

Doctors are not always available in emergencies.

They are in short supply or lacking in some small towns and rural communities. Most hospitals lack 10 to 25 per cent of the nurses for whom they have positions.

Doctors are not all of equal skill and knowledge, any more than persons in any profession. New knowledge, new techniques flowing rapidly from research impose "continuing education" or else slippage of a physician's medical art, even to the point of mediocrity.

Of what use, many ask, is new life-saving knowledge if it is not applied quickly, and well?

Millions of poor people do not receive good or timely care, despite free clinics, despite donations of time by dedicated doctors.

And there are inevitable strains because "the doctor" is, after all, a human being — like his patients.

Physicians can become overworked, harried, with a home life marred by missed dinner or theater engagements, by broken promises to their own children, because of emergencies. And they have legitimate complaints about some patients.

Every patient has some personal experience, and frequent gripe, about physicians or hospitals.

Perhaps there's no hope of resolving all such problems between patient and doctor or others giving health care to an individual.

But medicine is no exception to "the rapid turning of the wheels of change," writes Dr. Ward Darley of the Association of American Medical Colleges.

There is no dearth of ideas, suggestions and proposals to remedy problems and to improve medical and health care.

A great trouble, says Dr. John H. Knowles, administrator of Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, "is that everyone is feeling just part of the elephant. No one feels much commitment outside the area of his own interest."

And it is a big, odd and complicated elephant.

World News In Brief

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP)—The Vatican has failed again to persuade Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty to end his self-exile in the U.S. legation in Budapest and go to Rome.

Franziskus Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna, visited the Hungarian primate for five hours Sunday. Cardinal Koenig told newsmen: "We talked about the Ecumenical Council. That is all I can tell you."

At Vatican City, sources close to the Vatican secretariat of state said Pope Paul VI's concern over Cardinal Mindszenty's health prompted him to send Cardinal Koenig to Budapest. But the sources said the 74-year-old Hungarian cardinal, who had a serious attack of influenza last fall, still wants to remain in his homeland.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Central Committee of the Kuomintang, President Chiang Kai-shek's party, met today to nominate him for his fourth six-year term as president.

After his nomination during the four-day session, Chiang will announce his choice for vice president. The post has been vacant since the death of Vice President Chen Cheng on March 5, 1965.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — At least four police officers were reported under investigation today following the killing of a member of ex-President Juan Bosch's armed guard.

Witnesses said two police cars drove up Sunday to a house where the guard, 23-year-old Yeustaquio Agramonte Macklyn, was visiting about 200 yards east of Bosch's home. They said a police major walked up to Agramonte, shot him in the head, and the police left after exchanging a few shots with other guards nearby.

Bosch was having lunch at the time. His aides denied that his home was fired on.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special bonuses totaling $43 million are awaiting the 86,000 highly trained servicemen—if they re-enlist. The Pentagon theorizes the bonuses cost less than training replacements for enlisted men with critical skills.

The special bonuses vary for importance and supply of the skill. Servicemen with some key skills, such as missile mechanics and sonar technicians, could receive up to $10,000—the maximum $8,000 "variable re-enlistment bonus" plus the standard $2,000 re-enlistment bonus.

The new bonuses, approved by Congress, will be allotted over the next 16 months. And the Defense Department is expected to ask for an extension of the program beyond June 1967.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Nat'l Chairman Ray C. Bliss predicts his party will score "substantial gains" in November's congressional elections.

Talking with newsmen at a weekend meeting of big-city GOP chairmen, Bliss said inflation and "Democratic in-fighting" over Viet Nam policy are helping Republican prospects.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has suggested telephone companies voluntarily reduce their rates for overseas calls.

In a letter to the companies, the FCC noted these rates have been unchanged for 20 years although volume has increased and costs have dropped.

Kennecott is the other main U.S. copper firm in Chile. At Anaconda's second main property, workers reportedly defied union orders and returned to work.

'Dognaping' Bill Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for 1,200 medical research organizations urged a House subcommittee today to revise a bill designed to halt "dognaping" — interstate trafficking in stolen dogs and cats.

Maurice B. Visscher, president of the National Society for Medical Research, said in testimony prepared for a House Agriculture subcommittee that the scientific community "approves heartily of the basic objectives" of the legislation.

But Visscher asked that references to animals other than dogs and cats be eliminated from the bill.

"It would impose a well-nigh impossible burden to regulate traffic in fish, frogs, turtles, reptiles, birds and the many other mammalian forms used in laboratories," he said.

He proposed a modified bill that also would eliminate any reference to research facilities. The modified bill would regulate only dealers of dogs and cats.

The bill before the committee would make it unlawful for research facilities or dealers to buy, sell or transport animals without a license.

Pay Hike Bid For Federal Employees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to approve an average pay increase of 3.2 per cent, including fringe benefits, for federal civilian employees.

In a message to Congress, Johnson said direct salary increases will average 2.8 per cent. The remainder would be for fringe benefits.

Johnson estimated the cost of the pay increases, to become effective next Jan. 1, at $485 million a year.

With the increases he recommended, Johnson said, nearly one million of the 1.8 million employees affected would achieve pay on a par with private enterprise. These employees include about 88 per cent of all postal workers and more than 479,000 civil service employees in the lower grades.

Johnson proposed that employees contribute 7 per cent of their pay toward retirement annuities instead of the present 6½ per cent.

Dynamite As Weapon In Explosion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Police Inspector Robert McClellan says the explosion which shattered the national headquarters of the W. E. B. DuBois Clubs may have been a dynamite charge — as much as 40 pounds of it.

The blast Sunday ripped out the inside of the club's ramshackle two-story building, spraying glass and wood fragments on neighboring buildings and littering the street. There were no reported injuries.

"We have no definite leads or suspects," said McClellan. He said the blast may have been a dynamite charge placed under the front porch of the building, located in a run-down residential section several blocks from the city's Civic Center.

The explosion came less than 48 hours after the Justice Department moved to require the DuBois Clubs to register as a Communist front organization. On Saturday, in Brooklyn, N.Y., a street fight erupted when DuBois Club members called a news conference at a home, to the annoyance of neighbors.

The Brooklyn club members accused New York police Sunday of "standing by while we were beaten, kicked and punched."

Six club members were arrested in the street fight. Four were charged with carrying weapons, including an air gun and a knife.

The clubs were organized in San Francisco in 1963 after the death of Negro Communist W. E. B. DuBois, who renounced his citizenship and moved to Ghana.

DuBois had been instrumental in founding the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People but broke with it and then with the United States, chiefly over the matter of how hard to push for Negro rights.

McClellan said the building was empty at the time of the blast, heard 15 miles away. He said that some members of a "street gang known as the Marquis" had been meeting in the building about an hour before the explosion.

The statement also said in part:

"The bombing was, in effect, invited by the Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach's recent order for the DuBois Clubs to register as a so-called Communist front organization."

"We in the DuBois Clubs do not deny that there are Communists in our organization, and we defend the right of Communists to participate in the political life of our country."

In a petition to the Subversive Activities Control Board, Katzenbach said that the DuBois clubs were created and controlled by the U.S. Communist party. He said the clubs claim a membership of 2,500.

knocked down. The withering Red fire also forced down a Marine phantom jet. The two crewmen ejected safely offshore.

The intelligence information that enabled the Allied force to trap the Red regiment was provided by two North Vietnamese soldiers captured by government troops at the beginning of the month. They disclosed that the North Vietnamese regiment's mission was to cut Route 1, the strategic coastal highway, by mining it and blowing up a bridge.

The Marines launched Operation Utah with their Vietnamese allies Friday. Some troops dropped into the valley by helicopter, others pushed in by road. Artillery and air strikes softened up the enemy.

At times the firing came so close Allied units had to check with each other before every new barrage.

The Marines brought the weekend fighting in a coastal valley 335 miles northeast of Saigon to a rousing climax Sunday night by storming the North Vietnamese 21st Regiment's command post, capturing 95 weapons and seizing a store of enemy records.

A total of 533 enemy bodies were counted, but Col. Bruce Jones of McLean, Va., adviser to the Vietnamese 2nd Regiment, said: "There is evidence we killed or wounded as many more." Only half the enemy force remained alive, he said.

Another participant in the battle as an adviser to a Vietnamese battalion was Army Capt. Peter Dawkins, the former West Point football All-American and Rhodes Scholar.

While the fighting raged on the ground, U.S. spokesmen said two American jets were lost over North Viet Nam in raids Saturday. An A1H Skyraider jet from the carrier Hancock went down 40 miles southeast of Vinh and the pilot was presumed lost. An Air Force F105 Thunderchief was shot down 45 miles south of the city by groundfire but the pilot was rescued, a spokesman said.

The Communists sent up at least eight surface-to-air missiles against American aircraft attacking North Viet Nam Saturday and Sunday, but none of the Soviet-made SAMs hit their mark.

U.S. pilots sighted six missiles in flight over the North Sunday but none came closer than a quarter of a mile. On Saturday, two SAMs exploded 40 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa without hitting anything.

While part of the American air arm pounded Communist supply lines again, other planes dropped 4.7 million leaflets on the North, urging Communist soldiers to reject their regime's attempt to put them to war in the South, the spokesman said.

On the ground, the U.S. 1st Infantry Division also reported a major success 35 miles north of Saigon. Troops of the Big Red One claimed they killed 188 Communists in fighting over the weekend.

In front of one infantry battalion's positions alone, 97 enemy dead were counted, a spokesman said. The GIs also captured four 50-caliber machine guns, an important weapon in the Communist arsenal.

Count 16 Dead From Blizzard

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Road-plowing crews and rescue missions began bringing relief today to blizzard-battered parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota.

The toll of deaths stood at 16. Ranchers were counting up a heavy loss of livestock, especially in South Dakota.

Helicopters and airplanes, bulldozers and plows worked to relieve thousands stranded in what has been termed the Dakotas' worst such storm in decades.

Travelers who had taken refuge in stores, cafes, services stations, or homes continued their journeys.

Stories of human kindness and heroic effort came out of the chill, snow-swept land.

Like the North Dakota farm boy, Orien Auck, of rural Sterling, who scanned the whitened countryside and got worried when he didn't see smoke coming out of a neighbor's chimney.

The 12-year-old boy put on his coat and overshoes and trudged through deep snowdrifts to the farm of Lowell Brown, who lived alone. There, he found the 65-year-old farmer dead, his body draped over a windmill brace in the yard — a victim of the blizzard which lashed the Dakotas three days last week.

Vignettes like this were commonplace as rural and city folk alike fought for survival against the storm.

Six of the storm deaths occurred in South Dakota and five each in North Dakota and Minnesota.

There was a staggering loss in cattle and sheep — perhaps running in the millions of dollars.

One rancher, Frank Maciejewski Sr. of Timber Lake, S.D., estimated his at $100,000. "I had 400 to 500 cattle and the same number of sheep," he said. "The cattle bunched up next to a shed in a feedlot and smothered. The sheep got smothered, too, in hose deep drifts."

"One of my neighbors lost 150 cows in a corral and another lost 100. A couple of barns collapsed under the snow and other ranches and killed some cows."

A spokesman in Civil Defense headquarters at Pierre, S.D., said the livestock losses were staggering. North Dakota ranchers weren't hit as hard.

In both states, work crews pushed around the clock to open up roads clogged with drifts up to 25 feet deep.

The North Dakota Highway Patrol reported officers had rescued 55 persons from stranded cars. Lt. Gov. Charles Tighe, acting for vacationing Gov. William Guy of North Dakota, said Sunday, "Our helicopters are doing a good job."

"Saturday night we picked up a child and a woman on separate farms. They had pneumonia. Today we're going after two children with frostbitten feet," Tighe said.

Rate Cong General Top Strategist

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese general believed leading Communist forces in South Viet Nam is rated as a first-class strategist, an able planner and a competent field commander.

This evaluation of Lt. Gen. Hoang Van Thai has been made for Washington officials after painstaking exploration of the Chinese-trained general's background.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that Thai, former assistant chief of the North Vietnamese Joint General staff, infiltrated into South Viet Nam in early 1964 "and reportedly is the current commander of the Viet Cong armed forces."

McNamara also said a second North Vietnamese lieutenant general named Luong also was a 1964 infiltrator into South Viet Nam.

Luong may be in charge of political affairs for the highest Communist headquarters in South Viet Nam, McNamara said.

No details in Luong's background were available. However, it is known that Washington authorities have been given a rundown on Thai.

He was described as popular with the troops, as well as being a capable leader.

No information was available on Thai's family, nor his physical description, his language abilities or his religion, if any.

Thai was said to have been born some 50 years ago in North Viet Nam, some 40 miles south-east of Hanoi.

He probably was a teacher between 1928 and 1938 and is said to have served in the Chinese army.

U.S. authorities have been told that Thai has had both Chinese and Soviet military training, spent time at a Japanese naval school, and lived in Europe before returning to Viet Nam prior to 1939.

In 1939, Thai fled to Kwangsi in southern China with the man who was North Viet Nam's top military figure, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, probably returning to Viet Nam between 1941 and 1943 to help build the military forces of the Communist-led Viet Minh.

Thai is regarded as an advocate of the Red Chinese hard-line school.

After World War II, Thai rose to chief of staff of the Viet Minh army fighting the French and in 1952 directed Viet Minh operations in the Tonkin area.

Aftermath Of Battle; Ugly Sight

Editor's Note — AP photographer Eddie Adams was with Marine units that took part in fighting northwest of Quang Ngai. Here is his account of a battle aftermath.

By EDDIE ADAMS

CHAU HAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — Slowly, silently, a company of U.S. Marines went back for their dead on the hill of no name today.

Knee deep in the mud of the rice paddies, they hardly deigned to reply to the Communist snipers who tried to halt their march.

They found the bodies where they had left them Friday afternoon on a small, barren hill of whitish clay where there had been no place to hide.

First, combat engineers groped around, searching for booby traps. Scavengers had stripped the bodies of weapons and equipment, but steel helmets lacerated by machine-gun bullets and discarded flak jackets were strewn about the field.

Scattered over the American bodies were Viet Cong leaflets exhorting the Marines to quit the fight.

"Refuse to obey all orders to carry out mopping-up operations and massacre the Vietnamese people," the leaflets urged. "Refuse to attack the Viet Nam People's Armed Forces."

They were signed by "The South Viet Nam National Front for Liberation," the political arm of the Viet Cong.

Marines picked them up, read them and discarded them in mute contempt.

The Marines took the hill in a bitter fight Friday.

They were harassed by sporadic sniper fire from another hill about 100 yards away, which was thickly shrouded with brush. Both hills are about 75 feet high and are surrounded by waterlogged rice paddies.

Suddenly the tempo of the enemy fire speeded up.

"Just about everything hit us," said Lt. James Lau, Kearny, N.J., the company commander.

Fire came in from three sides. From machine guns and automatic rifles. Then came the mortars.

"Every time a guy moved, he'd get hit," Lau said.

Two hours dragged by. Then came a radioed order to withdraw.

More Marines were hit dragging out wounded.

Four wounded men lay apart from the main group. One man died and five others were hit trying to bring them in.

"The Viet Cong used them as bait," said Sgt. Jack Holmes, Fremont, Ohio. "Only two of the four made it back."

AS the Marines pulled out, the Viet Cong broke cover. About 100 charged over the crest of the hill. They were camouflaged with leaves and branches.

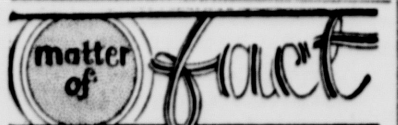

"All you could see were dark green trousers," said Sgt. Frank Picon, Trona, Calif.

Lau said, however, "I guess we got 50 of them."

"They were in there so thick that we couldn't have missed them," commented Lt. Col. Leon N. Utter, Lau's battalion commander from Miami, Okla.

Over-all casualties of American Marines and South Vietnamese troops in the battle were described as light.

According to Greek legend, the Sphinx terrorized people by demanding the answer to a riddle—What is it that has one voice and yet becomes four-footed and two-footed and three-footed?—and devouring a man each time the riddle wasn't answered correctly. Finally Oedipus gave the right answer: A man who crawls on all fours in infancy, walks on two feet when grown, and leans on a staff in old age; the sphinx then killed herself.

Irishman Helps Calm Criticism

WASHINGTON (AP)—A quiet Irishman with a velvet glove has helped calm some of the Senate criticism of President Johnson's course in Viet Nam.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, the Democratic leader, has demonstrated in the week since he returned from a recuperative vacation in Florida that soft words diminish wrath, if they do not always turn it away.

The second day after the tall, lean Montana senator climbed back in the leadership saddle, the Senate passed overwhelmingly a $4.8-billion military authorization bill that had been before it since Feb. 14 while members wrangled over Viet Nam.

Mansfield, with characteristic modesty, takes no personal credit for this. He says the members were just tired of squabbling and ready to act.

Within hours after his return, the Democratic leader helped extricate Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey from a sticky situation brought about by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's invitation for him to testify before it on his nine-nation tour of Asia.

No vice president can afford to let a committee order him around, and Humphrey was determined not to be put on the stand at a public hearing.

Acting Democratic Leader Russell B. Long of Louisiana already had traded verbal blows with Chairman J. W. Fulbright in the Foreign Relations Committee's televised hearings. Relations between them were strained.

But Mansfield prevailed on Fulbright to join with him in inviting Humphrey to sit down with senators and talk informally with them. The session turned out to be a friendly one, with nobody going away mad.

Now Mansfield is drawing on his seemingly inexhaustible supply of patience to move the Senate toward a vote on a $415-million foreign aid authorization which includes $275 million in economic aid for Viet Nam.

The Democratic leader occupies a unique position in standing apart from the noisy Senate uproar over Viet Nam. Quietly, he had opposed the resumption of North Viet Nam bombing, thus siding with Fulbright.

For all their recent chatting at a White House party, the President and Fulbright are not what could be called chummy at this point.

In contrast, Johnson and Mansfield continue to maintain close relations. Mansfield has his reservations about steps Johnson has taken and communicated them to Johnson. But his attitude has been that "we're in this thing too deep" to carp at the President publicly.

NEW YORK (AP) — William Cardinal Conway, Roman Catholic primate of Ireland, has arrived in the United States, but he won't be here long enough to attend New York's famed St. Patrick's Day parade March 17.

The cardinal plans to spend one week in Florida, Alabama and New York. The purpose of the visit, he said, is to take part in the dedication of the restored 400-year-old St. Augustine Cathedral in Florida.

About St. Patrick's Day, the cardinal said:

"I'm sorry I won't be here. But if I was not back in Ireland for the feast of St. Patrick, they would never forgive me."

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Miss Layona Glenn celebrates her 100th birthday Tuesday in Atlanta and then goes to Washington where President Johnson and other officials will pay her tribute.

Miss Glenn, a former Methodist missionary, will be a guest at the Brazilian Embassy Wednesday. She spent 35 years in Brazil.

Now living in a Methodist home for senior citizens, Miss Glenn still is active in her work — corresponding in Portuguese and English and writing a column for three weekly newspapers.

When the Army learned he needed an immediate operation, it planned to give him a medical discharge because the condition existed prior to his service.

But the draftee's father, a veteran of World War II, said he had lost both his job and hospitalization benefits.

A spokesman at Ft. Dix said Sunday the Army would perform the operation early this week.

White Line On Highways On Way Out

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "Botts dots" are making the familiar white line obsolete on California highways. Backers claim they are also making life safer for millions of motorists.

State engineers predict that eventually the bright, bumpy little round markers will dot highways throughout the nation, at substantial savings in lives and money.

Highway men hung the "Botts dots" tag on the markers because they're primarily the brainchild of the late Dr. E. D. Botts of the California Division of Highways.

Experimental versions have come and gone on California roads for more than 10 years in a search for better lane dividers than the usual white lines, which tend to vanish in rain, fog and snow.

The end result, now being planted along major freeways, is a dome-shaped gadget 4 inches wide and three-quarters of an inch high. So pleased is State Highway Engineer J. C. Womack with the little dots' work that he asserts: "The white line on California highways is obsolete. Our new type lane marking is not only more visible and cheaper, but will also make driving in California safer."

The plan mixes use of plain white and reflectorized markers, the plain ones showing better in daytime, the reflectors better at night.

Groups of four plain dots, three feet apart, are used instead of the nine-foot-long white strips previously dividing lanes. On straight sections, a reflective marker is placed every 48 feet, and every 24 feet on curves.

Carrying out the state's war against wrong-way drivers on freeways, who take a heavy toll each year, the reflective markers on roads with dividing medians show white to a driver headed the correct way.

But a motorist zipping along into oncoming traffic is confronted with a string of bright red "lights" ahead of him — the reverse side of the dot.

Raised markers are slated for all future freeways, expressways and two-lane rural highways in nonsnowy areas. Tests are under way in the Sierra Nevada on markers implanted level with the highway, to survive assault by snow-removal equipment and abrasive sand.

The raised markers are held to the pavement by a high-strength glue that made their introduction possible.

One main effect of the markers is psychological. The rumble effect when a vehicle hits the markers cuts down lane changing by about 40 per cent, tests show. That reduces the number of accidents — waking a dozing driver, for example.

Senate Plans Vote On Tax Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate planned to start voting today on President Johnson's tax bill to provide an extra $6 billion in revenue to help finance the Viet Nam war.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he hoped passage would come by Tuesday. The bill would restore recent cuts in excise taxes on telephone calls and automobiles.

The legislation is expected to be the most important measure to clear Congress this week. It passed the House Feb. 23.

The House has no major legislation scheduled for floor consideration this week.

TV Treats Fantasy Honestly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stuart Little, E.B. White's adventurous hero, was five inches tall and weighed five ounces without his ice skates. He was the second son of a surprised New York couple, had a normal brother named George, but Stuart looked like a mouse — and his closest friend was a talking and reading pigeon named Margalo.

Stuart, in White's children's book, had marvelously interesting experiences. It is hard for an adult to recapture the excitement of childhood, but this reporter recalls the wonderful stories spun by a grandfather who told of a family of tiny people, no taller than a finger, living in a normal-sized world.

Sunday night NBC's "Children's Theatre" gave "Stuart Little" a loving, straightforward interpretation, matching precisely the words of the story read by Johnny Carson. We actually saw Stuart in his bed made of clothes pins, standing staunchly on the deck of the "Wasp" during the great race of model ships across Central Park lake and flying over New York hanging on the legs of his pigeon friend.

Even so, it seems almost a shame to give specific form to fantasy which allows a child's imagination to roam free. I wish that Stuart could have been left inside the covers of the book so that each child could have pictured him as he chose.

CBS' "Candid Camera," whose high points are to often the moment when the victim discovers he has been had, turned up Sunday night with two particularly bright and amusing segments. One involved several children trying to deliver a telephone message and getting things pretty mixed up. The other had a series of patient interviewers at a dating bureau trying to get information from a pair of fake lovers. Both were way above average for the show.

You Can't Get Rich This Way

When was the last time you saw a half-dollar? In change, that is, not in the drawer or piggy bank where you and umpteen other Americans are stashing them away as fast as the Treasury turns them out. It's been a long time — but they may be coming back.

Since they were first introduced in March 1964, some 400 million Kennedy halves have been produced — two for every man, woman and child in the United States. Not only have these utterly vanished but the old Ben Franklin 50-cent pieces are disappearing as well.

The half-dollar inflow to the Federal Reserve banks shrank from 254 million pieces in fiscal 1961 to 1.3 million in the last six months of 1965.

Now there are indications that quarters, especially the shiny 1964 ones, are starting to go the same way.

What began — and would have eventually ended — as a fad for JFK coins promises to turn into nationwide hoarding of all silver coins because of the introduction of the new copper-nickel quarters. The silverless dimes and halves of only 40 per cent silver that are due to appear soon will only speed up the phenomenon.

Observers say the situation is developing into a classic example of Gresham's Law — that "bad money drives out good."

In other words, when governments circulate coins with the same face value but with one made of cheap metal and the other of precious metal, people will hoard the latter.

Why? In the old days it was because of inflation or economic uncertainty. Today, some people are obviously doing it in hopes that a rise in the price of silver will make silver coins worth melting down someday. Others are just saving them because they are the last of their kind.

In either case, it's going to be a long wait for any profit. In the first instance, the government can be expected to maintain the price of silver at its present level for an indefinite period.

In the second, with so many coins stored away in private reserves, no one now alive will ever see the time when a half-dollar or a quarter stamped "1964" is worth more than four bits and two bits respectively, silver or no.

NORFOLK (Va.) LEDGER-STAR: On-foot Safety. — Almost from the time a youngster begins to toddle, anxious parents commence the "don't run in the street" training, and even as the baby grows into a child, the words of warning — and sometimes the hand of discipline — remain as reminders.

But a little later along, he begins to hear that the pedestrian always has the right of way, that he is, in a sense, king of the road. The conception is popular today — and one can argue that, to a point, this is as it should be.

With this responsibility, however, lies the equal moral obligation of the pedestrian to be alert and of good judgment. Safety experts stress this responsibility, of course, through education, promotion, and other kinds of campaigns. But too infrequently do the efforts include enforcement.

The volume of traffic victims — a high percentage of them pedestrians — continues to be the national tragedy. Timid remedies can do little to erase it.

(But) in Norfolk the appropriate ordinances governing pedestrians were put on the books in the first place to be enforced. And if a citizen on foot foolishly thinks he is indeed the king of the road, the courtroom may be just the place to dethrone him — and perhaps save his life as well.

Girl Scout Week

Some of the innumerable "Days" and "Weeks" which we are supposed to celebrate each year in this country are without any notable significance and importance. Some are unconsciously silly. Some are highly specialized and are of interest only to the few. But, there are some which have earned and which deserve the recognition and support of us all.

That is true a dozen times over of Girl Scout Week, which is observed this year during the March 6-12 period.

The Week's stated purpose is: "To celebrate the birthday of Girl Scouting in the United States." That birthday took place on March 12, 1912, in Savannah, Georgia. In the intervening years, the movement has spread across the nation, bringing life-long benefits to legions of girls. Morale of Ho's Aides Begins to Sag

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — All is not well politically in Ho Chi Minh's North Viet Nam.

Translations of documents written by high Hanoi Communist officials and reaching here point to growing internal disagreements and problems in morale, bureaucracy and lethargy among Ho's party workers.

It is at present impossible to determine how serious these rifts are, but these documents make clear problems are increasing.

One of the writers warns bluntly that some North Vietnamese officials have become defeatists and favor peace. "Now they see only difficulties and do not see opportunities. They display pessimism, perplexity and a reluctance for protracted resistance."

The author of this document, a member of Ho's Politburo, says these dissidents now assume that the "balance of power" in the war is favorable to the United States and against North Viet Nam.

Something must be done to change this attitude fast, says this high official, because the war is going to get worse.

If the war is to be won, the documents point out, the North Vietnamese are going to have to dig in, work harder and work together more closely.

But what is happening? Too many Communist officials are passive, says one document. "Party instructions... are discussed and studied only perfunctorily." Middle echelon and even high officials "make light of" party directives.

"Lower echelon" aides endlessly debate instructions from higher authorities "setting forth difficulties as a pretext for refusing to carry out party orders."

The documents make other charges against the way that numbers of government men carry out their war tasks.

The main charge — too many party and government officials are not taking the war effort seriously. But that's not all:

"In some cases, due to bureaucracy, high echelon officials do not fully grasp the situation... Their instructions do not conform to reality."

Those with "great economic and political power" are more interested in preserving their special rights and privileges than in carrying out the party's objectives.

President Johnson's strategists expect that, as the war intensifies, these Hanoi internal problems will increase.

Fulbright: Example of the Viet Critic

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright is a kind of classic example of all those critical about the war in Viet Nam but snaggled on the dilemma of how to end it.

They have ideas on what to do or not to do — as some showed before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, of which Fulbright is chairman — but are hazy on solutions.

Two speeches by Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat, one last June 15 and one March 1, and a statement Sunday night show the dilemma of the critics of the Johnson administration, which is in a bit of a dilemma itself.

President Johnson tried to get the Communists to negotiate. Having failed, he must continue the war, he feels, without stepping it up to such a degree that Red China might feel impelled to jump in.

In June, Fulbright said complete victory would be too costly but unconditional withdrawal from Viet Nam is unthinkable because of the disastrous results.

Withdrawal, he felt, would betray this country's obligations to people we have promised to defend and weaken their belief in U.S. guarantees.

At the same time he is against stepping up the war, although how else the Communists can be convinced to quit fighting is difficult to imagine.

He suggested negotiations to end the war, with major concessions by both sides, although admitting Johnson's efforts to get the Communists to negotiate wound up nowhere.

Nevertheless, Fulbright envisioned a compromised peace and after that, he proposed, the United States should join with others in a large program for the social and economic development of Southeast Asia.

(Johnson had proposed just such a program weeks before Fulbright did.)

Almost a month before Fulbright's June 5 talk Johnson said the Red Chinese are bent on dominating all Asia but on March 1 Fulbright came up with another speech, this one proposing how to deal with Red China.

He suggested an agreement with Red China to neutralize all of Southeast Asia although there was nothing to indicate Red China would ever consider such an agreement.

Spain, Then Home

By CYRENE DEAR

MADRID, SPAIN — The rain in Spain has spent one month falling on the plain between Madrid and Toledo but there is usually great drought in this area during summer months. Because of a mix-up in plane travel the newspaper group did not get to Madrid in time to attend the reception in its honor given by Ambassador and Mrs. Angier Biddle Duke, but was able to meet with a group of Spanish and American journalists.

Under General Franco Spain has progressed industrially and educationally. Madrid has doubled its population since the civil war and large government housing projects are replacing the slums. Foreign industries have built factories on the outskirts and banks are now occupying former palaces and homes which housed the nobility.

Since there was no opportunity for briefings in Spain the Study Mission settled for tourism. A day was spent in Toledo, about an hour and a half's bus ride from Madrid. Toledo is now a national monument and an architectural and artistic paradise. It is virtually an island surrounded by the Tagus River.

Its architecture shows a strong Moorish influence, but it is the magnificent Gothic Cathedral which dominates the city. Its tower rises 300 feet and many beautiful chapels inside contain famous El Greco paintings. The most renowned is called "The Burial of Count Orgaz" and it is considered a great achievement in expressing in material form the relationship between the natural and supernatural. El Greco's elongated portraits often distorted anatomy but al-made, Fulbright said, the United States and China should pull back all their forces. But Red China does not have forces on the soil of other nations.

How such an agreement could be policed to prevent Red Chinese cheating would be monumental in itself. Fulbright did not go into details on that.

Fulbright announced Sunday night that his Foreign Relations Committee will open hearings Tuesday aimed at increasing public knowledge about Red China. He said there is a real danger that the "open-ended" Viet Nam conflict will lead to war between the United States and Communist China.

Americans should be "open-minded and inquisitive" and try to learn all they can about the Chinese, he said.

Last Thursday, two days after Fulbright proposed his neutralization idea, Red China linked Johnson and his critics together as "fools" and said there was no fundamental difference between them about continuing the Viet Nam war.

ways expressed the sitter's personality, and his color effects in blue and yellow pioneered the art of his time.

El Greco gave up his Greek name, Domenikos Theotokopoulos, which was given him at birth on the island of Crete. He settled in Toledo when he was 36 years old and chose to be called El Greco (the Greek). A house patterned after his home contains many of his paintings.

Toledo has no apparent industry except the beautiful handicrafts which are still made with the skill and instruments of centuries ago. The iron and gold inlay provides work for the craftsman. Old fashioned bellows, hammers and tongs help to create fencing foils and artistic ironwork.

There are many schools and monasteries in Toledo. Young priests in long black robes wander through the narrow streets. The old fortress of Alcazar, standing on a high hill, sheltered 2,000 nationalists during the siege of the recent civil war. Tourists flock to Toledo to view its historic cathedral, its art treasures, its handicrafts and its picturesque location.

For one brief hour in Madrid before taking the flight for New York, the group visited the famous art gallery "The Prado." Here are large collections by El Greco, Velasquez, Goya, Reubens and a few Titians. El Greco's master piece "The Christ" hangs in The Prado; "The Maids of Honor," considered Velasquez's masterpiece of the Royal Family, occupies one wall. Both the Nude Maja and the clothed Maja, portrait of the Duchess of Alba by Goya, equally seductive, adorn both sides of a doorway. "The Three Graces" by Reubens illustrate his famous flesh tones and voluptuous female nudes. Reuben's faces are always the same, no matter what the pose or position. His wife was his model.

The Prado is not a large gallery but it contains the Spanish masters and a few others who spent a great deal of time in Madrid.

Finally it was time to load the bus for the airport and board the huge jet plane for New York. After five weeks of pleasant relations with publishers from California to Massachusetts, many interesting briefings and conferences, meeting

This is the last of a series dealing with the revision of the criminal codes and laws in Missouri, a project directed by the Missouri Bar Assn., hopefully to be completed by 1967. Several prominent attorneys, judges and professors throughout the state are working on a committee established by the association to revise criminal law procedures.

Criminal Code to Include Substitute for Bail System

A substitute for Missouri's bail bond requirements has been proposed by the Missouri Bar Assn. committee on criminal codes and procedures which is designed to protect citizens awaiting court trials from abuses inherent in the present bail system.

"The present bail system is based on the principle of putting up some penalty to induce appearance at a trial," according to Ted Lauer, a law professor at the University of Missouri at Columbia and a member of the committee.

The proposed system, Lauer said, is patterned after the congressional "Bail Reform Act of 1965" which states: "Present Federal bail practices are repugnant to the spirit of the Constitution and dilute the basic tenets that a person is presumed innocent until proven guilty by a court of law, and that justice should be equal and accessible to all."

In addition, Lauer pointed out that the bail system often has been abused, as in cases where the defendant has committed another crime to pay his bondsman, or where courts refuse to accept bail from anyone but a bondsman, who in turn often gives a percentage to the officials involved.

"We need to re-examine what we are after in employing the bail system," Lauer said. First, is the requirement of appearance at trial, but a reputable citizen with extensive community ties is not likely to run away, he explained.

The Manhattan Bail Project, sponsored by the Vera Foundation in 1963-64, recommended a point system to examine a defendant's background and eligibility for release before trial.

If a defendant met certain requirements he was released on his own recognizance to return for his own trial.

Lauer said that about 2,630 people were released in this manner, and 99 per cent of the defendants showed up in court.

In some cases, a defendant who is charged for a petty felony often serves more time awaiting trial than he does following the conviction, as he might be paroled from the date of the trial after having spent several days or months in jail because he could not afford to post bond, Lauer explained.

"This is 1966," Lauer said, "and many of our criminal procedures, specifically the bail system reflect doctrines adopted by our great-grandfathers."

To bring this aspect of criminal procedure up to date, Lauer and other committee members have begun by avoiding even the use of the word "bail" and have labeled this section of criminal procedure "release pending proceedings."

Where it is likely the defendant will not appear for trial, the committee is considering release on his recognizance, based on age, ties with the community, work record and the nature of the offense.

Lauer said that a provision has been made for the use of a property or cash bond in some cases, but that this will be discouraged. It also is possible that a defendant would be allowed to work during the time pending criminal proceedings.

Additional requirements on a graduated scale have been provided to insure appearance at trial if the court is not reasonably certain the defendant will try to escape.

Lauer said he has recommended a statute making it a criminal offense to fail to appear in court, and to a lesser degree, the individual courts may hold the possibility of a fine or other penalties to insure trial appearance.

"One thing must be kept in mind," Lauer said, "that the purpose of pre-trial release is not the prevention of other crimes." The defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty, he explained, and the present bail system does not coincide with this principle.

Secretary Compiles Assembly Journals

One of the major tasks delegated to the Secretary of State — compiling, editing and printing House and Senate Journals — has just been completed in record time by Secretary James C. Kirkpatrick's staff.

The 73rd General Assembly's journals for 1965 were placed in the hands of senators and representatives when they returned to the Capitol March 7 for the special budget session, a little more than three months after adjournment of the special Nov. 22 session. It was the earliest completion of the journals anyone could recall.

The new journals have pale green covers, imprinted in dark green ink.

Printed in limited edition (400 copies), the journals are principally of historical interest. However, they come into use in election years, when legislators research them to "point with pride" at their voting records — while their opponents study the same material to "view with alarm."

The House Journal contains 2,288 pages, and the Senate Journal 2,054. Both record all the official acts of the General Assembly in both its regular and extra sessions during the year. Secretary Kirkpatrick assigned the tedious task of compiling, editing, indexing and proofreading this 4,342 pages of material to two experienced legislative employees — Mrs. Agnes Porth, official reporter for the House, and Mrs. Shirley Hutinger, secretary to State Sen. John J. Johnson, St. Louis County.

Here is another bridge problem. This one occurred in actual play. East was Jack Ehrlenbach of California and South was an expert whose name will not appear.

The problem is to figure out how South managed to go down at his six spade contract without revoking, pulling the wrong card or making any error usually associated with bad bridge players.

The answer is that South managed to figure out a line of play that only an expert and a very unlucky one could think of.

Of course, Jack who has been playing bridge forever or possibly longer, helped South to his defeat.

West opened his ace of hearts and Jack dropped the king. West continued the suit. South looked hard at Jack and then went up with dummy's queen of trumps. It was just possible that West really held nine hearts and South was not going to lose the first two tricks.

Jack followed to the second heart and now South had a real problem. He gave Jack some dirty looks, thought awhile and finally came to the conclusion that Jack held all three missing trumps.

After coming to this momentous conclusion it was the work of just a few more seconds for South to go set. He led dummy's seven of spades. Jack played low and South let it ride. West produced the jack and that was all.

Don't write to tell us how silly South was. We are in complete agreement but want to point out once more that only an expert could have been so silly.

Swine Show

The Mo-Kan Swine Show and Carcass Contest will be held Wednesday, March 23, 1966, at The American Royal Building in Kansas City.

This event does offer both commercial and purebred hog producers an opportunity to get additional carcass information about their hogs.

Entry blanks and rules and regulations may be obtained from the Extension Office or any of the commission firms at the Kansas City Stock Yards.

Narrow-Row Corn

Research has not as yet provided all the answers regarding narrow-row corn. Despite the fact that there has been considerable difference in results from different locations, different seasonal effects, different planting areas, and different hybrids used in tests, the pattern that has developed points toward the following conclusions: No yield reduction is to be expected from using rows 30 ins. or less wide—provided the stalk count per acre is not increased beyond the number that can be supported by the available moisture supply and fertility. Planting in narrow rows does not mean that stalk count per acre should be increased. Yield increases from planting in rows closer together than the normal 38" - 40" are not to be expected until corn yields approach 120 bushels per acre, and stalk counts per acre reach 20,000 or more. Except where irrigation is used, stalk counts as high as 20,000 are hazardous in Missouri because of the uncertainty of obtaining sufficient summer rainfall. Higher stalk counts do give more down corn so higher yields in the field are not always reflected in the bin.

Narrow-Row Beans & Milo

Combine-type grain sorghum seems to average about 10 per cent more yield at 30" — as compared to 40 inch row widths, provided weeds are controlled equally as well. Soybeans in narrow rows yield higher in the northern part of the soybean belt, but this advantage diminishes from north to south, so that in the Missouri Delta narrow rows can not be expected to yield more except with late planted beans that attain less than normal growth and canopy spread. A one to two bushel increase from 30" — as compared to 40-inch rows may ordinarily be expected in Central Missouri at a 30 bushel yield level. 20-24" rows or drilled beans usually give a slight additional increase if weeds can be controlled.

Grass Fertilization

The next few weeks is an excellent time to fertilize grass. If you need more pasture or hay or both, top dressing established grass sods with fertilizer should just about double yields during the spring season. No cultivation of the existing sod is necessary.

While grass fertilization is a relatively new practice, it is a fairly simple procedure. Briefly, here are the points you need to consider: Apply a fertilizer or fertilizers, which will supply nitrogen, plus phosphate, plus potash. Get the fertilizer on the grass as soon as possible, but no later than by the time the grass starts to green up. If lime is needed — top dress the field with agricultural limestone. Use enough fertilizer to do the job. Grass takes about the same amount as your grain crops.

Of the above, including nitrogen, phosphate, and potash in the fertilizer is one point you won't want to overlook. Like the grain crops — grass requires all three. Nitrogen stimulates top growth. Phosphate promotes rooting and helps thicken or maintain stands. Potash is required for stem, root, and leaf development, and is a must for legumes. Since all three are essential all should be included in your fertilizer. A shortage of lime may also cause you trouble, so if lime is needed — correct the problem by adding limestone.

Actually, there is considerable variation in the time of applying soil treatment to grass. However, the "quicker the better" is a good rule, because of soil conditions. Days or mornings when the ground is frozen are an ideal time to apply materials. Spreading equipment will not damage the sod, and this is a big advantage. Experimental work has shown that fertilizer applied on frozen soil will give satisfactory response. Thus you can take advantage of these conditions and get the job out of the way. Normally, the deadline for applying treatments is about the time grass greens up, or starts to grow. In other words, any date should give a response.

Income Possibilities From Finishing Feeder Pigs

One of the more frequently discussed topics of conversation among Missouri farmers the past few months has been the price of hogs. For those farmers who buy feeder pigs instead of farrowing their own pigs, today's high hog prices prompt them to ask the question, "How much can I pay for feeder pigs now and still make a profit?"

The answer depends primarily on three factors. Let's look at these factors, one at a time. Anticipated Selling Price: 40 lb. feeder pigs purchased now will be going to market as 225 lb. hogs about the middle to the end of June. The price of hogs by that time may be quite different from what it is today. The farm manager will need to use his judgment and make this decision. As we will see, it makes quite a difference in what he can afford to pay for feeder pigs if he believes hogs will sell for $22 or $24 a lb. in late June. Feed Costs: For manure management, these feed costs are difficult to determine, but the manager who has consistently kept records of his past performance will be able to "guesstimate" quite closely the feed requirements to feed out the feeder pig. When he is able to determine the amount of feed required, he can combine this with the value of feed and figure out his total feed costs. Other costs can generally be determined quite accurately by the individual manager. Again, past records can serve as guidelines.

Let's take an example and work it through to establish the procedure and see what a typical situation might be. Let's assume that the asking price for healthy good-doing 40 lb. feeder pigs is $5.00 per lb. or $200.00 per head. If you, as a feeder can put on 1 lb. of pork with 4 lbs. of feed, and feed costs you $2.75 per cwt., you can feed the pig from 40 lbs. to 225 lbs. for a feed cost of $20.35. Add to this the $20.00 cost per head and we have a feed and pig cost of $40.35. Now, let's anticipate that hogs will sell in June for $22 a lb. The 225 lb. hog will sell for $49.50. This would mean that you would have a net return of $9.15 per hog above feed and pig costs.

The other costs generally run from $2.00-$3.00 per head, which would leave about $6.00 or $7.00 per head for labor and management. If the finished hog had sold for $24.00 per cwt. instead of $22.00, the return for labor management per hog would have in the neighborhood of $10 or $11.

But had the 40 lb. feeder pig we purchased earlier for $5.00 per lb. been a 60 lb. feeder pig, the return for labor and management would have been about a minus $1.00 per head with hogs selling at $22 a lb. and plus $3.00 per head if hogs sold for $24 per lb.

This indicates that $5.00 per lb. for lightweight thrifty feeder pigs should show a profit in June if hogs should sell for as low as $22.00. Conversely, $5.00 per lb. might be higher than you want to pay for 60 lb. feeder pigs if you anticipate hog prices to be no higher than $22.00 in June.

The crash of a jetliner in Japan and the worst blizzard in recorded U.S. history brought grief to scores of American homes over the weekend.

A British Overseas Airways Corp. Boeing 707 with 124 persons aboard broke apart in the freakish air over Mt. Fuji Saturday and crashed. BOAC officials said 90 of those aboard were Americans. Of these, 75 were on an Asian tour sponsored by the Thermo King Corp., of Minneapolis, Minn., a refrigeration equipment company.

It was Japan's second major air crash within 19 hours and the third in a month. The three crashes killed 321.

At Miami, Fla., an Eastern Air Lines Boeing 727 jet with 101 aboard belly landed safely Saturday after its landing gear had stuck. No one was injured.

The blizzard raged in Minnesota and the Dakotas, claiming at least 16 lives in storm-related incidents.

The storm abated Saturday. Cities and towns were isolated in heavy snow whipped by winds up to 100 miles per hour. The record snow included 35 inches at Moberg, S.D.

Weekend Viet Nam developments included: Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, a top adviser to President Johnson and former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says the key North Vietnamese supply harbor of Haiphong should be closed by U.S. mines. In Honolulu, Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, U.S. Pacific military commander, said mining the harbor would be "a good idea."

Brig. Gen. Ellis W. Williamson, who commanded the 173rd Airborne Brigade in Viet Nam, told President Johnson the enemy looks like a fighter groggy in the fifth round of a 10-round bout.

The commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, praised U.S. troops and said they had "destroyed more than four regular Viet Cong battalions in the past few days."

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said there is present danger of war with Red China. Fulbright, a critic of U.S. policy on Viet Nam, also said he was skeptical of reports that the war is turning in favor of the United States. He announced that his committee will hold Senate hearings on Red China.

Other weekend news highlights:

In Miami, Fla., blonde Candace Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, were found innocent of the 1964 slaying of her husband, financier Jacques Mossler. After first announcing a deadlock, the jury reached the verdict after more than 16 hours of deliberation.

Mrs. Mossler, who says she is 40, and Powers, 29, said later at a news conference they had no plans to wed.

President Johnson directed Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey to combat summertime unrest among young people by helping them find 1,750,000 jobs.

Violence flared again in the Dominican Republic as a U.S. paratrooper was wounded with six others in downtown Santo Domingo. A member of the armed guard protecting ex-President Juan Bosch was shot to death near the revolutionary party leader's home.

LBJ Is Back At Desk After Stay In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson returned to Washington today after enjoying what an aide described as "considerable relaxation and rest" at his Texas ranch.

Deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming said the chief executive was weary when he flew to Texas Friday night. He said Mrs. Johnson had encouraged him to get a change of scenery.

"I think he's gotten considerable relaxation and rest down here," said Fleming.

The press aide said Johnson planned to spend a normal week at his White House desk, possibly sending Congress one or more special messages covering new legislative proposals.

Woman Pronounced Dead On Friday Dies In Hospital Sunday

NEW YORK (AP) — Miss Henrietta Landau, 71, pronounced dead Friday night and later found to be alive, died Sunday in Roosevelt Hospital. An autopsy was scheduled for today.

Miss Landau, a retired nurse, suffered a heart attack Friday at her home. She was pronounced dead by Dr. Samuel Gaines, who had been treating her for Parkinson's disease and heart trouble.

The body was taken to a funeral home where, several hours later, a mortician heard a moan from the woman. She was rushed to the hospital.

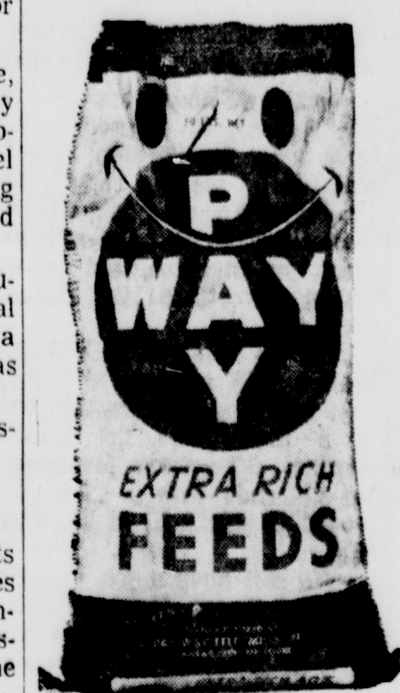

Dr. Gaines has refused to discuss the case.

Kansas Is Assured Of At Least A Tie In Big Eight

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Streaking Kansas, the nation's No. 6 team, is assured of at least a tie for its 19th basketball title in the Big Eight's 38-year history and needs a victory over Colorado at Lawrence tonight for an undisputed crown and a seventh NCAA tournament trip.

Colorado upset 9th ranked Nebraska 95-88 at Boulder Saturday, knocking the Huskers out of a first place tie. Chuck Gardner, 6-7 veteran pivotman, led Colorado with a school record 42 points, 31 in the first half.

"We still have a job to do," said Ted Owens, Kansas coach. "Colorado played us tough out there in January, led by seven at the half, and they have improved a great deal since then. So have we. I know our boys won't let us up."

Kansas made its league record 12-1 and season standing 21-3 by whipping old rival Kansas State 68-55 at Manhattan Saturday, the 100th victory for Kansas in the 157-game series. The Jayhawks learned of the Nebraska defeat by radio while en route home by bus.

Nebraska, now 11-2 and 19-5, will try to keep its hopes alive against seventh-place Oklahoma

State, 2-11, at Lincoln. In event of a tie for the crown, a play-off for the NCAA berth would be Wednesday at K-State.

A key man in the Kansas surge has been Al Lopes, 6-5 veteran moved to his natural forward spot with the arrival of talented 6-3 Jo Jo White. Lopes has averaged 20.1 his last three games.

11-Member CMC Team Is Named

Representatives of the Central Missouri Conference voted 11 players to the 1965-66 All-Conference basketball squad, with the Rolla Bulldogs dominating the team, it was announced last week.

Rolla, winner of the CMC conference crown, placed four players on the 11 man squad picked by league representatives. No Sedalians were listed on the team.

Heading the squad were Rolla's Don Morford, a 6-11 senior center, and Ken Griffin, 6-3 junior from Columbia Hickman. Both were unanimous choices and were named co-captains of the team.

Three Smith-Cotton Tigermen made the honorable mention list, James Whitney, Larry Bell and Charles Norris.

Other first team choices, besides Morford and Griffin, were: John Searfoss, 6-3, junior, Mexico; Harold Fountain, 6-4, senior, Mexico; Larry Frank, 6-0, senior, Rolla; Carl Franklin, 6-0, senior, Rolla; Joel Dant, 5-9, senior, Hannibal; Mike Farmer, 6-0, junior, Jefferson City; Terry Henage, 5-10, senior, Mexico; Ron Tegerdine, 6-2, senior, Columbia; and Gary Henry, 6-0, senior, Rolla.

Receiving honorable mention besides the three Sedalians were: Columbia's John Onofrio, Eddie Gross and Tom Shroat; Hannibal's Bruce Beaver, Mike Davis and Dennis Skoglund; Mexico's Rich Loehning and Gordon Small; Jefferson City's Randy Ketchum, Tom Preston and Charlie Ratz; and Rolla's Mike Crain.

Antitrust Suit Trial Heads Into 2nd Week

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against baseball headed into its second week today with lawyers warned to speed up proceedings or face possible night and weekend courtroom sessions.

Circuit Court Judge Elmer W. Roller said he would hold the attorneys overtime in the courtroom if necessary to complete the trial by the start of baseball season, only five weeks away.

Wisconsin, seeking to prove that organized baseball operates as an illegal monopoly, hoped to finish its presentation of evidence this week. Only four witnesses were called last week as repeated conferences between the judge and the 17 trial lawyers interrupted courtroom proceedings.

Wisconsin is asking that the Braves be ordered to return from Atlanta to Milwaukee, their home for 13 years, or that the National League be forced to grant a replacement franchise for the city through expansion.

"Bikinis" Roman women athletes of the 4th and 5th centuries wore garments similar to "bikini" bathing suits while participating in games.

Colorado sophomore Mike Rebusch, a deadly outside shooter, suddenly blossomed with a 17-point average his last three games. Gardner is back in top form after a foot injury slowed him at mid-term.

Iowa State, 6-7, meets K-State 8-5, at Ames tonight in the other game.

Oklahoma sewed up at least a share of fourth place at 7-7 by closing with a 69-53 victory at Oklahoma State, completing the first three-game sweep by the Sooners over OSU since 1921.

Walt Wesley, 6-11 Kansas pivot needs 5 points to move past Ron Coleman's final 281 total and take his second straight scoring crown. Gardner trails Coleman by 36 points.

Nebraska refused to fold at Boulder despite Gardner's big night. The Huskers hit 51 per cent but Colorado hit 54 and led 34-29 in rebounds with Rebusch getting 13.

Undeclared Cage Teams Fade Away

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

And then there were none.

Like the gold nickel cigar, songs that rhyme moon and June, and Edsel autos, college basketball's last two undefeated teams faded quietly away over the weekend.

But Adolph Rupp and Don Haskins expect to have Kentucky and Texas Western back making plenty of noise in the NCAA playoffs which open tonight.

Both the Wildcats, ranked No. 1, and the second-rated Miners had 23-game winning streaks snapped Saturday and both Rupp and Haskins, while disappointed, hoped the defeats would teach their teams lessons.

Kentucky backed into Rupp's 22nd Southeastern Conference crown when Vanderbilt dropped a 92-90 decision to Mississippi State while the Wildcats were being upset by Tennessee 69-62.

Kentucky completes its regular schedule with a meaningless SEC game against Tulane tonight. Then Rupp has until Friday to repair his club's confidence for the Wildcats' NCAA playoff debut against the winner of tonight's Dayton-Miami of Ohio battle—one of two Midwest Regionals scheduled for Kent, Ohio. Chicago Loyola takes on Western Kentucky in the other.

Haskins had less time to regroup Texas Western. The Miners dropped a 74-72 decision at Seattle Saturday night and come right back tonight against Oklahoma City in the Midwest Regional at Wichita. Houston plays Colorado State in the other Midwest game.

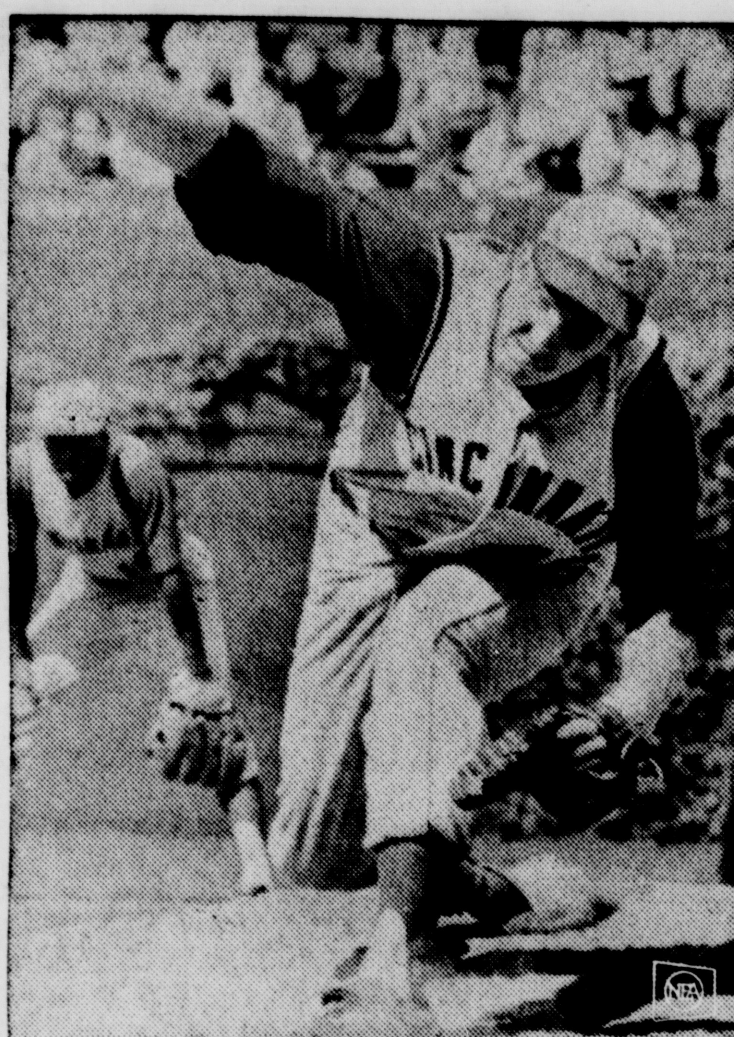

In tonight's other NCAA play-off doubleheader, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia takes on Providence and Davidson meets Rhode Island in the Eastern Regionals at Blacksburg, Va.

Meanwhile, the nation's other big post-season tournament, New York's National Invitation, completed its 14-team field with the addition of New York University, San Francisco, Villanova and Wichita. The NIT opens Thursday.

In other weekend action, Duke captured the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, overcoming North Carolina's freeze to win 21-20 Friday night and then whipping North Carolina State 71-66. The Blue Devils take on tonight's St. Joseph's-Providence winner Friday.

Michigan clinched its third straight Big Ten crown by downing Northwestern 105-92 behind Cazzie Russell's 48 points. The Wolverines, who reached the NCAA finals last season, open their tournament play against the Chicago Loyola-Western Kentucky winner.

Sanders Chagrined

Wants Business To Run Golf Show

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Sanders, chagrined at disqualification that he says cost him $25,000, demanded today that the affairs of the Professional Golfers Association be put in the hands of a $70,000-a-year czar.

"We are a $4-million business run by people making $17,000 a year," he said. "If you pay $17,000, you get a $17,000 man. We need a big-business man to run the show."

The 32-year-old Sanders, from Ojai, Calif., made no attempt to hide the bitterness he felt from his ouster Saturday for failure to sign his scorecard after he had shot four strokes into the lead of the $65,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Removal of Sanders — still a center of hot controversy — sent Gay Brewer Jr. of Dallas, Tex., to the front of the pro golf pack, and Brewer responded with a third-round 67 Sunday that put him six strokes ahead at 201 — almost out of reach.

Brewer's 54-hole score, with the final round set today, was 201, 15 under par for the 6,380-yard, par 72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Tied at 207 was the quartet of Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C.; Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn.; Dick Hart of Hinsdale, Ill., and 24-year-old Randy Glover of Florence, S.C.

Glover had the best round of the day — a 66, with nine birdies. Boros and Rudolph shot 69 and Hart 70.

Four more were tied at 208. They were Jacky Cupit of Dallas; Dave Ragan of Orlando, Big Eight title by whipping Kansas State 68-55 and can wrap up the conference crown and an NCAA berth against Southern Methodist next Friday by defeating Colorado tonight.

NYU and Villanova earned their NIT berths by beating St. John's of New York and DePaul, both of whom had already accepted bids. The Violets whipped the Redmen 67-58 for a 15-9 season's record. Villanova won its 10th in the last 11 by nipping DePaul 76-73.

San Francisco finished with a 91-65 victory over Pepperdine and a 21-5 record for second place in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Wichita, an 81-79 double overtime winner over Tulsa, finished tied for second with Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Worsley Blanks Bobby Hull

CHICAGO (AP)—Gump Worsley, the Montreal Canadiens' 3 year-old goalie, is pro enough to know that records are made to be broken, but he wouldn't have any of Bobby Hull's antics when the chips were down Sunday night.

Worsley blanked Hull and the Chicago Black Hawks 1-0 to help lift the Canadiens into a commanding three-point lead in the National Hockey League with the race heading for the finish line.

"It was a big win and he had a lot to do with it," said Montreal Coach Toe Blake as he pointed to Worsley.

The Canadiens won the pivotal game on a goal by Claude LaRose at 10:05 of the second period, but the victory really belonged to Worsley, who turned back 33 Chicago shots including five by Hull, who was seeking a record 51st goal.

"You don't want him to break a record against you unless you win the game," said the Gumpier. "I know that. He scored his 50th against me to tie the record in 1962 when I was with New York."

"If Hull would have scored tonight in a 1-0 game, then that would be something else. But he didn't," sighed Worsley. "You always try your best. Sometimes it works, sometimes it doesn't."

The Hawks, who have now been shut out on successive nights by Toronto and Montreal, don't feel that Hull's quest for the record has anything to do with the team's play.

"I'd say the guys were bending backwards to get me the 50th goal," said Hull. "But not anymore. We're just trying to win. Well, we lost two straight and a lot of factors enter into that but not my going for the record."

In Track Meet

Thin Atmosphere Plays Its Part

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Albuquerque's thin atmosphere demonstrated several things during the 1966 National AAU Indoor Track and Field Championships, which ended early Sunday.

It leaves women indoor world record-setters breathless.

Pole vaulters and jumpers can take it or leave it, but mostly would like to take it to all meets.

And it doesn't affect sprinters — at least in two days.

Bob Seagren, 19-year-old Glendale, Calif., City College sophomore, became the first 17-foot-plus pole vaulter indoors, going 17 feet, 4 inches.

"I guess it might have helped," Seagren said of the 5,289-foot Albuquerque altitude. "There's less gravity."

Seagren was one of six world indoor record breakers. Another mark was tied.

Hungary's Zsuzsa Nagy-Szabo, women's 880-yard world record setter, was still gasping for breath 15 minutes after her 2:08.6.

"I was running out of breath at the end," she said.

Art Walker of Evansville, Ind., triple jumped 54-9 1/2, breaking his own indoor record of 54-0. He said he seemed winded during early jumps but seemed to get stronger and go farther as he went along.

Edith McGuire and Wyoming Tyus, both of Tennessee State, set world marks in the 220-yard dash and 60-yard dash, respectively. Miss McGuire ran a 24.1, breaking for the third time in two days the record held previously by Vivian Brown of Tennessee State and Marilyn White of the Los Angeles Mercurettes, at 24.8.

Miss Tyus' 6.5 bettered the 6.6 mark she shared with Miss McGuire and Eleanor Haslam of Canada.

Charlotte Cook, Los Angeles high school senior, ran the 440-yard dash in 54.2 for the sixth record.

Another prepster, Bill Gaines,

Brain Surgery For Orioles' Catcher

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catcher Dick Brown of the Baltimore Orioles was to undergo brain surgery today in a three-hour exploratory operation which doctors hope will disclose the cause of headaches and dizziness.

The 31-year-old Brown said he's more concerned about being able to play baseball again, than about the surgery itself. He has been an American League catcher for nine years.

The surgery follows two examinations in Florida, where Brown was preparing for spring training with the Orioles.

17, Mullica Hill, N.J., tied the world's indoor record in the men's 50-yard dash with a 5.9 in Friday's preliminaries and won Saturday's finals with a 6.0.

Miss McGuire announced after the meet that she was quitting track to go to work after graduation. The Olympic gold medalist said she didn't know what she would do.

"It's just a record," said Seagren. He missed in a try for the all-time high at 17-4 1/4. Fred Hansen of Rice University holds a 17-4 outdoors.

Seagren cleared the bar on his second attempt at 17-0 1/4, beating out roommate John Pennel and Santa Clara Youth Foundation's Jeff Chase. Chase and Pennel tied for second at 16-6.

Seagren's previous high was a 16-7 at the Maple Leaf Games in Toronto last week.

Toronto Probable Fight Site

TORONTO (AP)—This Canadian city will be the site of the Cassius Clay — Ernie Terrell heavyweight title fight — probably, not definitely.

The fight — an in-and-out-of-town affair since Clay sounded off after being reclassified 1-A in the draft — will be held in Maple Leaf Gardens, an official of the arena said Sunday, with reservations.

"The fight will take place in our building," Harold Ballard, executive vice president of the Gardens said, "unless there is a disapproval from the Ontario government. But we have semi-approval."

And the fight promoters said they have selected a site in Canada, which they would disclose today.

"We want to let it cook overnight so we can be sure we have the site," Mike Malitz of Main Bout, Inc., which holds the closed-circuit television rights for the bout, said in New York.

Ontario Athletic Commissioner Merv McKenzie said all that remained in order to hold the fight in Toronto was for the commission to approve details of the contract. He said that although approval is not definite, he felt the details would be looked after.

He was told in a telephone conversation to Chicago that Illinois rejected the fight "because the promotion was not in proper order."

Sites which have refused the fight include New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Montreal, the Montreal suburb of Verdun, Louisville, Ky., and the State of Maine.

Clay's appeal of his reclassification from 1-Y, an exempt category, to 1-A, which makes him eligible for military service, is scheduled for a hearing March 17 in Louisville.

Celtics Cry Foul Over Wilt

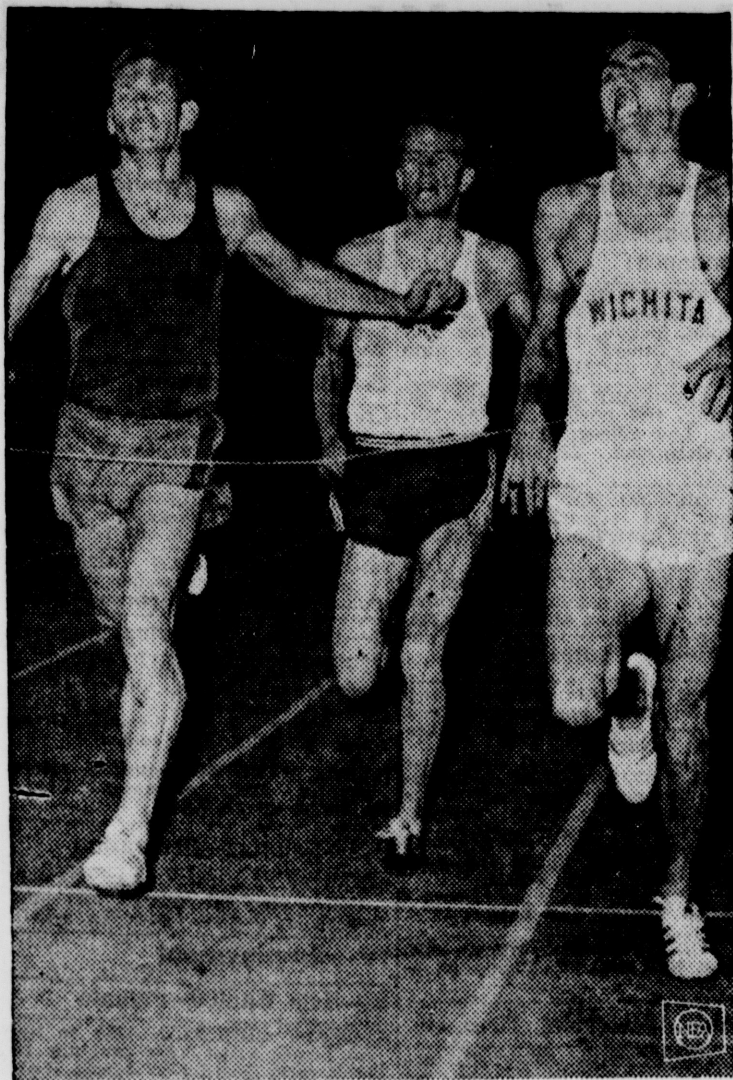

BOSTON (AP) — Philadelphia had a decided edge today in a bid to end Boston's perennial domination in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division as the smarting Celtics cried "foul" over the antics of 76er ace Wilt Chamberlain.

The 7-foot-1 Chamberlain, the NBA's all-time scoring king, connected for 32 points and grabbed 30 rebounds Sunday in leading the 76ers to a 113-110 victory over the Celtics and a sweep of a home-and-home weekend series.

"I've never said anything about this before, but I've got to speak about Chamberlain now," Boston's retiring coach, Red Auerbach, said. "I never have seen a man so big and strong get the protection he gets."

Auerbach, who joked at half-time after receiving a gold lifetime pass from NBA President Walter Kennedy, was in no laughing mood after his Celtics slipped one-half game behind Philadelphia in their drive for a 10th straight Eastern title and an eighth consecutive league championship.

"Chamberlain is a great bas-

Top Dollar Sought By 5 Pitchers

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

What would you have if you had Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Jim Maloney and Jim Grant?

You'd have the best pitching staff in baseball, that's what you'd have.

But that's not what the Los Angeles Dodgers, the San Francisco Giants, and Cincinnati Reds and the Minnesota Twins have. They have trouble.

And to erase their trouble, it would take, collectively, $1,175,000.

The five pitchers — who with Maury Wills, Tony Oliva and Frank Robinson comprise a celebrated list of holdouts — are asking that much to pitch for their respective teams this year.

And until they get what they want, instead of heading for Koufax and Drysdale, who won 49 games during the season and three in the World Series for the Dodgers, each want a three-year contract worth $500,000.

Marichal, the Giants' 22-game winner, seeks $75,000; Maloney, who recorded two no-hitters among his 20 Cincinnati victories, wants $50,000 and Minnesota's Grant, a 21-game winner, asks $50,000 or maybe slightly less.

Neither pitchers nor their owners apparently have given much ground lately.

Last year the five hurlers won a total of 112 games and lost only 49. They struck out nearly one batter an inning while walking only two a game. They also compiled an earned run average of 2.53.

Mr. Bell liked to make things better...

After Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1876, he did not rest on his laurels. He helped form the National Geographic Society, developed the basic method of making phonograph records on wax discs and pioneered a method of locating icebergs by detecting echoes from them. He made suggestions and contributions that helped give us air conditioning and the iron lung. For 46 years after inventing the telephone, he lived a vigorous and creative life.

Southwestern Bell likes to make things better, too ... Six short years ago, we did not offer the Princess® telephone, Home Interphone, Wide Area Telephone Service, Centrex service, Data-Phone data communications service or Panel Phone. There was no electronic artificial larynx, no automatic dialer and no Speakerphone. Today, these new items help us provide the best telephone service in the world. But we want to make it better. That's our legacy from Mr. Bell.

Stock Market No Incentive To Go Jump Out a Window

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — How badly were stocks mauled in the last five days of a frenzied up and down market? They looked bad in the headlines — but for most blue chips individual losses gave no incentive for jumping out of windows.

In trading volume, March came in like a lion, with 50,406, 720 shares changing hands, against 32,647,546 in the week before when the market was more orderly. But the final score for the week for the 30 blue chips on the Dow-Jones industrial index were more lamb-like.

At Friday's close that index was 20.66 points lower than the previous Friday, February 25. And the fluctuations of the index captured the headlines.

But on average the 30 stocks lost just $1.50. And three of them had managed to gain a bit. A fourth was unchanged for all the week's turmoil.

Here are the figures: February 25 the Dow-Jones industrial index closed at 953.00. Friday, March 4 the closing was 932.34. But take the closing price on each of the 30 stocks on the index and the total value February 25 was $2,139.36. Divide by 30 and you get an average price of $71.31. At the following Friday's close, March 4, the market price of one each of the 30 was $2.094, for an average price of $69.80. The average loss thus is $1.51.

The reason the average actual price is so much lower than the Dow-Jones index is that the index has been adjusted many times over the years to allow for stock splits, stock dividends and the like. So today the total of the closing prices of the 30 blue chips is divided by 2.245, instead of by 30.

Individually the losses for the week ranged from $4.75 for United Aircraft to 12 cents for American Tobacco. Gaining on the week were Allied Chemical, up $1.75; Alcoa, up $1; Union Carbide up 62 cents. American Can was unchanged.

Other of the larger losses were: Johns Manville at $3.62. Swift and Anacosta at $3.25 each and Texaco at $3.

None of the losses are welcomed by the holders of these shares. Nor is the effect of the wide swings in the popular averages, either on other stocks or

Asks Weeding of Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a U.S. Senate subcommittee inquiring into invasions of privacy is urging a Federal Trade Commission investigation of newspaper and magazine advertising of electronic eavesdropping devices.

Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., said that since the Federal Communications Commission has outlawed such listening devices, "it would seem to me that the advertising of these gadgets should also cease."

on public psychology, good news on Wall Street.

But the public, reading only about the averages, may think that the stock price drop is much worse than it really is.

The averages serve a purpose in showing how the market is behaving — and furnishing a historical background. A Dow-Jones industrial index 932.34 looks bad when compared to its record of 955.15 early this year. But it looks good if compared with around 480 some 10 years ago.

Most stockholders have learned long ago that what matters isn't what happens to some market index. What matters is what happens to the stock you own.

Teaching Job Better

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Dramatic improvements have been made in teacher working conditions and fringe benefits, but teachers still have a long way to go until they catch up with their private industry colleagues, says the AFL-CIO's American Federation of Teachers.

Reporting on a survey of 586 school systems, the federation said it found that almost half of the schools with more than 6,000 students assigned their teachers more than 5½ hours of classes and paperwork a day. And salaries were generally lower than comparable jobs in private industry, the federation said.

Romans are credited with the first extensive use of lead, mostly for water pipes.

Rulers of Cyprus

Since its written history began about 1500 B.C., Cyprus has been ruled by the Egyptians, Assyrians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, the Byzantine Empire, England, Venice and the Turks.

Mail Bag Again Open To Public

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

It doesn't pay to hitch your wagon to a snail. Someone has figured it takes 2½ million snails to equal the pulling power of one horse.

Glove talk: If she draws her glove halfway onto the left hand, it means, "I am indifferent." If she holds the tips of her glove downward — "I wish to get acquainted." If she puts on her left glove and leaves the thumb uncovered — "Do you love me?" And if she puts on her right glove and leaves the thumb uncovered, she's saying, "Kiss me."

While there is a knowledge explosion going on, there is also a knowledge lapse. For example, the American Dental Association reports that about 90 per cent of the American people still don't brush their teeth properly. Quotable notables: "Some folks can look so busy doing nothing that they seem indispensable" — Kin Hubbard.

Beating the teen-age drinker: Kids in many states alter the birth date on their driver's license to prove they are old enough to buy liquor. Kansas stops that by issuing red license cards to drivers under 21.

Sometimes the official mind acts in mysterious ways: An amendment to the British post office guide prohibits sending chewing gum to the Soviet Union.

George Washington was better at betting at the card table than the racetrack. But he did come out ahead when his famous stallion, Magnolia, lost to a racer owned by Thomas Jefferson. Washington recouped by trading the stallion to Gen. Light Horse Harry Lee for 5,000 acres of Kentucky land.

A reader reports: "In sorting through a collection of books left by a grandfather, I came across a dictionary printed in 1901. Leafing through it, I saw 'uranium' defined as 'a worthless metal, not found in the U.S.'"

Worth remembering: "Be friendly with the folks you know. If it weren't for them, you'd be a total stranger."

Matter of Fact

The American frontier rifle was the first infantry firearm of precision. At the battle of Bunker Hill, the Americans inflicted casualties of 45 per cent with their limited ammunition by taking "aim at the handsome waistcoats" of the British troops. It took longer to reload than the smooth-bore musket, but it had greater range and accuracy.

Vote For A Man Who Will WORK FOR YOU!

KENNY MELTON

Democratic Candidate For

COUNCILMAN

THIRD WARD

Young • Energetic • Capable

DO YOU NEED SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED??

Have you been fully satisfied with the way your city government has been run?

If not, then elect a young, aggressive man who has proven he has leadership and will represent old and young alike. Also elect a man who is vehemently opposed to "railroading" of city issues through the council.

Have you been "left in the dark" on many of the city matters?

Then elect a neighbor of yours who pledges to keep the people INFORMED on their own interests.

Are you getting weary of having a few control the thinking of certain members of the city council?

Then use your right to the ballot and put the control back into the hands of Sedalia citizens and out of the control of the "Establishment."

Will Sedalia continue to have its serious city administrative problems?

Only if our voters remain complacent and become self-satisfied with the way the city is being operated today.

IF THE VOTERS OF THE THIRD WARD WILL ELECT ME THEIR COUNCILMAN TUESDAY, I PLEDGE TO WORK IN THEIR INTERESTS ONLY AND NOT BE A "FIGUREHEAD" FOR ANY OUTSIDE INFLUENCES.

My background speaks for itself: (1) Family man with five children. (2) Successful in my business. (3) Churchman. (4) Homeowner. (5) Activity in Youth Work. (6) Participate in other worthwhile community affairs.
